

Step 12: Look for opportunities as governments revise their DRM policies/laws

At the moment FbF is mostly implemented by humanitarian agencies in collaboration with government agencies. More and more countries are changing their DRM laws as a result; this opportunity should be used to advocate for the integration of FbF or similar approaches into national systems, with government funding for early actions.